"Celebrating Empowered Women: past, present, future"

Our Foundation

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) was founded in 1881 as a membership organization. AAUW Greensboro began in 1912 as a collaboration among local women under the Southern Association of College Women.

First branch president Mary M. Petty (1863-1958) grew up in a Quaker community known as Bush Hill outside of Greensboro, NC and described our founding in her own words: "The Greensboro chapter of the Southern Association of College Women was organized on March 26, 1912, at the instance of Misses Mary M. Petty and Julia Dameron, of the State Normal College. It reports a membership of 15, representing 11 different institutions."

Mary Petty received her bachelor's degree from Wellesley in 1885, and taught briefly at Guilford College (also in Greensboro) before coming to the State Normal and Industrial School in 1893. She led the department of chemistry there from 1893 to 1934. In addition to her classroom teaching, she helped lead the campus's Science Club, an organization for faculty members and advanced students to explore areas not included in the formal coursework. Two years after her death, Mary M Petty was honored with the naming of the Petty Building which housed the sciences and now is home to mathematics, statistics, physics, astronomy, and computer science.

Our branch is one of approximately twenty local branches in North Carolina and is one of the few which is organized as a separate 501c3 nonprofit, allowing for tax deductible donations and the sustained growth of our community outreach programs.

With over 90 members and several college/university partner affiliates, the organization meets September, November, January, and March and holds special events of interest to members and of service to our mission to advance economic and educational equity for women and girls in Greensboro.

2019-2020 AAUW Greensboro President's Letter

The Greensboro Branch of the American Association of University women is on a mission to empower women and girls. Our members are engaged in programs that support the needs of today's women and the future of the younger generation. The organization partners with other organizations that focus on building the respect and fairness of the females and their value in today's society. The variety of professional presenters from lectures to the hands-on non-traditional excursions allows the flexibility in exposure that is difficult to find in other locations. We partner with local agencies, organizations, and businesses to provide unique yet powerful opportunities to young girls such as: Tech Savvy, IT Is for Girls, Scholarships for College and University students, training in non-traditional careers through local technical college, and Gender Pay Equity workshops to enhance professional growth among women.

We continuously seek new and dedicated members who are excited about the opportunity to support other women. We look forward to your ideas and suggestions; please contact the AAUW Membership Committee for additional information

We learn to serve and we serve to learn!

Lenal Murrill-Chapman, AAUW Greensboro, President

AAUW Greensboro Branch Strategic Initiatives

NCCWSL

National Conference of College Women Student Leaders Project Coordinator, Barbara Carter

AAUW Greensboro offers NCCWSL scholarships to women from local C/U partner colleges and universities three years ago. To attend this conference, sponsored by AAUW national every spring in Maryland, college women require both registration costs and travel expenses.

Women in Nontraditional Careers

With a community action grant from AAUW National, and additional funding from the Women's Professional Forum Foundation, the Greensboro Branch supports women pursuing education leading to nontraditional careers such as metallurgy, welding, and manufacturing technology

Public Policy/Communications

Through Monthly Notes newsletters and frequent email updates, as well as Facebook and website postings, members are kept apprised of significant events and opportunities to advocate for women's issues at the state and national levels. A significant special project coming up is the 2020 Celebration of Women's Suffrage, especially as we near Women's Equality Day, August 26.

Education

With grants from generous donors who share our mission for education for K-12 girls, we are able to offer reasonably priced or free events in the Greensboro area. The Branch has an important collaboration with the National Center of Women in IT which allows high school and college women to apply for grants to fund education programs designed by and presented by the young women for girls in rising 5th through 8th grades.

We also offer an annual high school conference for girls, at the Joint School of Nanoscience and Nanoengineering, giving 9th through 12th graders the opportunity to network with each other and with college women who have successfully navigated the sometimes-difficult pathway to STEM education and careers.
