

AAUW Greensboro Branch

Handbook 2021-22

“Moving Forward and Going Beyond”

Our Foundation

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) was founded in 1881 as a membership organization. AAUW Greensboro began in 1912 as a collaboration among local women under the Southern Association of College Women.

First branch president Mary M. Petty (1863-1958) grew up in a Quaker community known as Bush Hill outside of Greensboro, NC and described our founding in her own words: “The Greensboro chapter of the Southern Association of College Women was organized on March 26, 1912, at the instance of Misses Mary M. Petty and Julia Dameron, of the State Normal College. It reports a membership of 15, representing 11 different institutions.”

Mary Petty received her bachelor’s degree from Wellesley in 1885, and taught briefly at Guilford College (also in Greensboro) before coming to the State Normal and Industrial School in 1893 (now UNC Greensboro). She led the department of chemistry there from 1893 to 1934. In addition to her classroom teaching, she helped lead the campus’s Science Club, an organization for faculty members and advanced students to explore areas not included in the formal coursework. Two years after her death, Mary M Petty was honored with the naming of the Petty Building which housed the sciences and now is home to mathematics, statistics, physics, astronomy, and computer science.

Our branch is one of sixteen local branches in North Carolina and is one of the few which is organized as a separate 501c3 nonprofit, allowing for tax deductible donations and the sustained growth of our community outreach programs.

With over seventy-five members and several college/university partner affiliates, the organization meets September, November, January, and March and holds special events of interest to members and of service to our mission to advance economic and educational equity for women and girls in Greensboro.

AAUW - Empowering Women Since 1881

Mission and Values: Advancing equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy, and research. In principle and practice, AAUW values and seeks a diverse membership. There shall be no barriers to full participation in this organization on the basis of gender, race, creed, age, sexual orientation, national origin, disability or class. By joining AAUW, we belong to a community that breaks through educational and economic barriers so that all women have a fair chance.

The Greensboro Branch is affiliated with AAUW National and AAUW North Carolina which includes 16 active branches across the state.

AAUW Greensboro President's Letter

As challenging as 2020-2021 was, I am deeply grateful to the officers and committee chairs of the Greensboro Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) for their leadership and resilience.

Key highlights of the past year

- Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Committee, Chair Everlena Diggs, proved essential to providing our members with programs and resources.
- AAUW READS, leader Lena Murrill-Chapman, embraced the opportunity to offer Zoom story time with North Carolina authors of children's books to encourage parents, grandparents, and children to excel, achieve, develop and succeed through literature for elementary students.
- Membership Committee, Chair Mary Fran Schickedantz, ran two Shape the Future campaigns and welcomed twenty new members.
- College-University Partnership Committee, Chair Sandra Yates-Evans, assured continuity of affiliation with UNC-Greensboro, Bennett College, and Guilford College; offered a gender pay equity program online with High Point University; and sustained contacts with North Carolina A&T State University and Guilford Technical Community College.
- STEM Education Committee, assistant chair Terra McKee, ran virtual camps from August through June, offered hybrid in-person sessions with the High Point Library and Greensboro Parks and Recreation, and honored 24 National Center of Women in IT Aspirations in Computing Awardees at the annual Find Your STEM Conference in collaboration with Dr. Sherine Obare, Dean of the Joint School of Nanoscience and Nanoengineering.
- National Conference of College Women Student Leaders (NCCWSL), AAUW Greensboro Scholarship Committee, Chair Barbara Carter, sponsored three local college students to attend the virtual annual conference.
- Programming Committee, co-Vice Presidents Felicia Cherry and Elaine Morehead, held four meetings to inform and educate members.

I am excited about the upcoming year.

I admire your wisdom. I welcome your input. I treasure your participation.

Laura Tew, AAUW Greensboro, President
